School's Out

Prize magazine asked four girls who have just finished secondary school about their plans for the summer.

- A. Angie Hook has got it all sorted. 'I'm going to be pretty busy. First I've got to get some money, because I know I won't have enough when I'm a student. The course I'm going to follow is really demanding, so I won't be able to take a part-time job in term time. So I've signed up with a company as a temporary secretary for most of the summer. Luckily, I did the same sort of thing in previous years, so I've got a bit of experience behind me, which is a big help. I am going to have a break though. Just before the university term starts I'm going to have a fortnight in Spain with some of the people who have just left school with me. My mum and dad are giving me the money for that as a reward for doing well in my exams, so I won't have to use up my savings.'
- B. Sally Price is less certain about her plans. 'I'm definitely going to have to work before I do anything else, because I'm so short of cash. I want to go away for a holiday somewhere by the sea, and I will have to earn enough for that, so I've got to look for a temporary job first. After that, it'll be too late to find any more work, so I'll just have a month hanging about at home, messing around with my friends, spending time with my parents. That will be good really, because I'm going to be a long way from home when I'm at a university.'
- C. Polly Targett would like to work. 'But the thing is, we live such a long way from town and I don't have my own car yet – I'm going to get one next year, for my birthday, but it's rather difficult to get anywhere at the moment. Well, there is a bus, early in the morning and I think there's one in the evening, but to be honest, it's much easier to stay at home. I doubt whether I'll go away, because I've already been on holiday with my parents earlier in the year and anyway I will have to do some studying before the term starts. Otherwise I'll just have to work so hard when I get to university there won't be time to enjoy myself with my friends.'
- D. Hilary Lee is going to start with a break. 'I'm really exhausted after all our school exams and so I'm going to have a fortnight with my parents, just relaxing completely. We're going somewhere abroad, but I don't know where, it's a surprise, a sort of present, because I've done well. I know it will be lovely. Then I'll find a job, it doesn't matter what, just so that I can have some pocket money for the rest of the year. It won't be hard to get something, in a hotel or whatever, summer is the high season for businesses in the area. Then I'll spend a couple of weeks doing nothing much, I hope, perhaps I'll paint my bedroom or something. And that will be it – summer will be over.'
